GREETINGS TO MALVERN FESTIVAL OF MILITARY HISTORY ATTENDEES

Two years ago I started an online history channel called History Hit TV.

Amazingly, it has become a leading destination for history fans and has served over 10,000 happy members.

I started it because I was frustrated that there isn't a proper channel for history fans where they could really indulge their passion for the past.

We offer our members access to hundreds of history documentaries, interviews and ad-free podcasts along with exclusive member benefits.

Enjoy the festival, and an extra month of History Hit TV on me.

The Art of Fencing

The work of Renaissance fencing master Camillo Palladini has never been published ... until now.

This stunning book, a joint endeavour between the Royal Armouries and the Wallace Collection, reproduces the chalk drawings in the manuscript together with a translation of the original Italian text. A critical introduction positions Palladini in the tradition of the great Italian fencing masters: Marozzo, Agrippa and Giganti. It is perfect for students of fencing, lovers of Italian art and scholars of early modern Europe.
